

SASE Network

(Global Value Chains)

GVC Conversations 2022 Webinar Series

5 May 2022 at 5pm CEST/ 11am EDT

A discussion of

A special issue of California Management Review on “The Future of Global Supply Chains in a Post-COVID-19 World”

With Authors:

Valentina De Marchi, Department of Economics and Management ‘Marco Fanno’, University of Padova

Gary Gereffi, Director of the Duke Global Value Chains Center, Emeritus Professor, Department of Sociology, Duke University

Liena Kano, Haskayne School of Business, University of Calgary

Paul Ryan, Trinity Business School, Trinity College Dublin

Chaired by

Rory Horner, Global Development Institute, University of Manchester

The COVID-19 pandemic brought a whole range of disruptions to supply chains across the globe, raising important questions as to what lessons can be learnt and what solutions can be found for a post-COVID-19 world. Join us for a discussion with some of the contributors to a recent special issue of California Management Review (https://cmr.berkeley.edu/browse/issues/64_2/) on how GVCs were affected by the pandemic, and how they could be redesigned.

To receive the ZOOM link, please register at <https://forms.gle/4FX49TYPDeiUaq7x6>.

To learn more about the GVC Network and Conversation Series, visit sase.org.